Dear all,

Re.: The cooperation between the foundation Greenpeace Netherland and other subsidised Dutch ngo's and the GMO actions (in Poland).

A strict media policy is the reason that Greenpeace Netherland doesn't support the action of the organic farmers in Poland against Genetically Modified Organisms (GMOs) as Ilona Stoker from Greenpeace – The Netherlands, on March 27th wrote. She suggests contacting Greenpeace Poland.¹

What we like to know, how the financial supporters and sympathizers of Greenpeace and other subsidised ngo's like A Seed (HIVOS) like Platform Biologica (Dutch organic farming) from the well known Dutch model are thinking about this attitude?

- The Dutch say no to GMOs. Only our queen Beatrix, the invisible political power (illuminati), said Yes! (Agd 14/08/04/p8 and p9). See also our questions about the Codex Alimentarius: <http://www.burgersinactie.nl/090325%20alimentarius.pdf>

Ik heb hier intern besproken wat te doen met uw verzoek.

We hebben een vrij strict persbeleid aangezien we meerdere campagnes hebben en daardoor niet altijd ruimte is voor gmo.

Ik raad u aan om contact op te nemen met onze collega's in Polen.

Hartelijke groet,

In Poland for the last few days eight people have been continuing a hunger-strike against GMO. The strike was initiated by two organic farmers: Mrs Edyta Jaroszewska and Mrs Danuta Pilarska. One person has not been eating for 15 days. They are protesting against uncontrolled genetically modified crops, especially MON 810 and widely used GMO animal fodder. Support their action and send the letter to Prime Minister Donald Tusk. More information about the action and the letter you will find:

Seit einigen Tagen befinden sich in Polen acht Leute im Hungerstreik gegen GVO. Die Streikaktion wurde von zwei Bio-Bäuerinnen, Edyta Jaroszewska und Danuta Pilarska begonnen, eine von ihnen hungert bereits seit 15 Tagen. Sie protestieren gegen den unkontrollierten Anbau von genetisch veränderten Pflanzen, insbesondere MON 810 Mais, und gegen die Vermarktung von GVO-Futtermitteln. Unterstützt ihre Aktion und schickt eine Nachricht an Premierminister Donald Tusk.

Sir Julian Rose is naar Polen gereisd om de hongerstakers te helpen, wie volgt?

Sir Julian Rose, 5th Baronet (born 1948) is a leading exponent of organic farming. He commenced the transformation of the Hardwick Estate in South Oxfordshire to the standards of organic farming in 1975.

Following an early career in both broadcasting and the theatre, he decided to make the family estate a mould-breaking example of organic principles in practice. Pioneering a radical experiment in land management, he instituted a system of integrated, yet independent, units based on share farm and rental agreements. The produce from these various enterprises, which incorporate dairy, beef, sheep, poultry, arable, fruit and vegetable enterprises, is marketed through Hardwick's own outlet, the Old Dairy Farm Shop, which has won national awards.

Sir Julian is an active promoter of organic farming and the rural economy. From 1984 he was on the council of the Soil Association for over 20 years. He co-founded the Association of Unpasteurised Milk Producers and Consumers, and is actively involved in the campaign to Save Real Milk. He also chairs an alliance of European groups to resist the regulations from Brussels that threaten traditional raw milk products. Nearer to home, he chairs the Association of Rural Businesses in Oxfordshire, an independent committee of rural working people devoted to the regeneration of a diverse and flexible rural economy. He is also the British director of the International Coalition to Protect the Polish Countryside.
